Dear Colleagues

We are delighted that you intend to visit us in February 2017. Our teaching resumes again after the Christmas break and first-semester examination period on 30th January 2017. Welcome to visit Queen's University Belfast from 1 February to 28 February.

We will be happy to organize a programme that includes class-room observation, tour of facilities and research meetings with appropriate staff from the School, and look forward to receiving further details from you on the specific areas you would like to discuss during your visit with us.

I am very much looking forward to welcoming you to the School of Arts, English and Languages at Queen's University.

Yours faithfully

cu.
